SPECIAL EUROBAROMETRE R 564 Public Awareness and Acceptance of CO ₂ Capture and Storage	European Commission	2011			CO ₂ is unhealthy (confusion with carbon monoxide)		"R&D in better technologies should be advanced. "Low carbon fuels could be an option	Developers should directly consult with the affected stakeholders.
The Global Status of CCS 2011	Global CCS Institute	2011						China's industrial communities are more favorable to CCS than communities that are not. (In the case of the Pioneer project)
Communication of CCS monitoring activities may not have a reassuring effect on the public	Sengo et al.	2011
Public Perception of Carbon Dioxide Capture and Storage	Walquist	2011	Little attention to transport	"Overly pressurized reservoir may amplify risk perception among the general public. "Appropriate images about storage mechanisms would increase benefit perception	Acceptable if CO ₂ derives from biomass instead of fossil fuels	Climate change awareness increased benefit perception. An Example of a Research Proposal

Economic models for peace, growth and poverty alleviation and resolution of conflict in Nepal, July 2010-July 2011

Poverty and inequality in Nepal has increased substantially in the last two decades. Major reason for this is the failure of the economy to grow because of internal conflict and political instability. As a result of the lack of employment prospects in the country thousands of young people are forced to migrate abroad and economy has lost manpower that could actively contribute to the growth process. Nepal's performance has been dismal compared to neighboring countries in terms of per capita income either in market prices or in PPP terms.

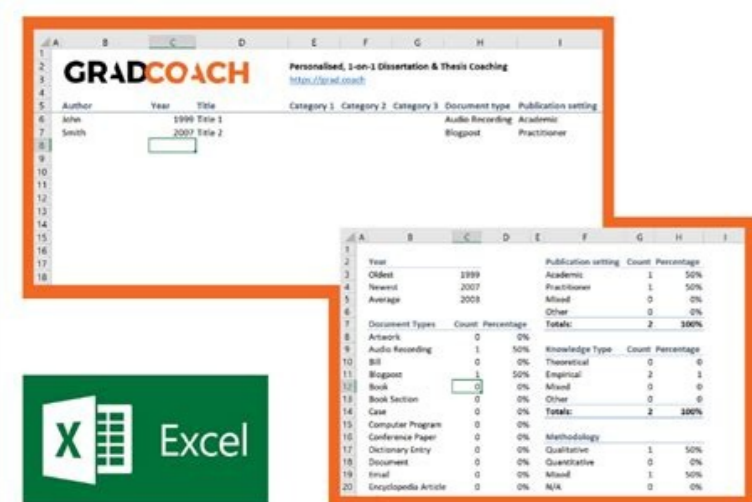

This study has three major objectives:

1. (a) To measure the depth of poverty and pattern of inequality in the distribution of income in Nepal based on most up to date household level information.
- (b) To find a mechanism that can help alleviating poverty in Nepal within a shortest possible time period.
- (c) To provide a thorough comparison of successes and failures of poverty reduction strategies in South Asia, and possibly also from other regions.

Literature review: Impact of Political Conflict on Poverty and Income Inequality

Available documents on poverty from the National Planning Commission of Nepal, Ministry of Finance and Central Bureau of Statistics explaining the poverty situation in Nepal are not up to date. Reports of international agencies such as the World Bank or the Asian Development Bank are helpful but very general and outdated particularly in the current context of conflict. Many macro and micro level studies in India could be relevant but have not been properly accounted so far while analysing poverty and income inequality studies in Nepal.

A significant amount of work has been done on the issue of measurement and analysis of poverty using statistical, econometric and dynamic general equilibrium models for evaluation of micro and macro level policies over years. UK has a history of more than 100 years of study on basic need since Rowntree's (1899) studied the minimum living standard for a respectable life in York in Britain (see updates in Glennester, Huils, Pichaud and Webb (2004)), Oshansky (1965). As Atkinson (1970) argues "a poverty line cannot be defined in a vacuum, but only in relation to a particular society at a particular date". Accurate measurement of poverty and determining the appropriate methods for its reduction has been an issue of theoretical investigation in works of Sen (1976), Foster and Shorrocks (1985),
